GMA seeks bigger role

General Motors Corp. is seeking a larger role in the U.S. auto industry, according to a report from the Wall Street Journal. The report says that GM is looking to acquire other companies in the industry, including Ford and Chrysler. GM CEO Rick Wagoner said that the company is "open to all options" and that it is "looking for a way to grow the company."

RP a tentative increase

The U.S. Federal Reserve has announced a tentative increase in the interest rate. The rate will be increased from 0.25 percent to 0.50 percent. The Fed said that it is doing this to help the economy grow. The Fed also said that it will continue to monitor the economy and will make further adjustments as needed.

Dutch to ban wearing of Muslim veils

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Dutch lawmakers on Tuesday passed a law that would ban the wearing of face-covering veils in public places, a move that has drawn criticism from Muslim groups and some politicians.

The law, which is part of a broader package of measures aimed at strengthening security and public order, would prohibit anyone from wearing a face veil in public places, including streets, parks, and public buildings.

The law also prohibits anyone from wearing a face veil in public places, including streets, parks, and public buildings.

Figure 1. A schematic diagram of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group received a standard 12-week training program, while the experimental group received a modified 12-week training program. The experimental group was further divided into two subgroups: the low-intensity group and the high-intensity group. The low-intensity group received a low-intensity training program, while the high-intensity group received a high-intensity training program. The subjects were then divided into two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group received a standard 12-week training program, while the experimental group received a modified 12-week training program. The experimental group was further divided into two subgroups: the low-intensity group and the high-intensity group. The low-intensity group received a low-intensity training program, while the high-intensity group received a high-intensity training program.

NEW YORK—NORFOLK COUNTY, Va.—A 1990 survey of 100 small, family-owned businesses in the county, a first effort to assess the economic health of the region.

The survey, which includes 100 owners, found that the county's small businesses are doing well, but the county's economy is still in a state of flux. The survey found that the county's small businesses are doing well, but the county's economy is still in a state of flux.
